The Institute

Founded in 1993, the Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology is an academic institution that works within the Roman Catholic Church and its principle of human flourishing through God’s grace. It sets out to offer transforming experiences through theological education and research, professional pastoral practice and personal formation. It is a member of the Cambridge Theological Federation, and works with the University of Cambridge and Anglia Ruskin University.

The Post

Research Associates are an integral part of the Institute’s research community. The Institute provides a locus for research, a forum in which it can be shared at research seminars and events throughout the year both in the Institute and across the Cambridge Theological Federation, and access to the libraries across these institutions.

Term

The Research Associateships are awarded for one year in the first instance, and renewable for up to three years.

Appointment Process and Criteria

The annual application round for the role of non-stipendiary Research Associate at the Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology is now open. Applications are open to both men and women in the discipline of theology; interdisciplinary applications are welcome.

Applications should be sent electronically to the Director of Research, Dr Férdia Stone-Davis (fjs23@cam.ac.uk) by Friday 1 November 2019. They should include a short CV and no more than one page including a brief summary of the research to be undertaken, projected outcomes for the year, and the relation of the research to the Institute’s academic community.

Applicants seeking re-appointment will be invited to submit an updated summary (as above), and a brief statement demonstrating their involvement with the Institute since appointment.
